MCS was the brand J.C. Penny used when they sold HiFi decades ago. The turntables were made by Panasonic / Technics in Japan. Many of the receivers and speakers were also made by Panasonic / Technics, others were Foster. To post a review for the Modular Component Systems MCS-6700, please login or register a free account.

Many purists used to laugh at the MCS brand. Not anymore. Well, there are probably still some that laugh at it but less loudly than before. The Modular Component Systems receivers once marketed by J.C. Penney are rising in value and recognition. Once assumed to be poorly built and designed for visual shock value rather than function their reputation has risen in the last few years.
