The problem thus presented aroused, an international interest after the franco-prussian War. The validity of the French moratory legislation relating to bills and notes came at that time before the courts Of a number of countries for decision. By most of them the French legislation was upheld even as regards local indorsers. A contrary conclusion was reached by the Supreme Commercial Court Of Leipsic' and by the Commercial Court Of Zurich. A considerable literature on the subject arose at that time both in
