Skills and competencies for graduates. Graduate recruiters look for specific job skills and competencies. These are what they have judged you need to do the job and work in their organisation. They might seem straightforward in job descriptions: communication, teamwork and problem solving are just a few. However this is the most common area of confusion for students and graduates when writing a CV or job application or attending an interview.

Competencies and outcomes can be written to describe the learning gained by students in individual courses (course outcomes) or for the program as a whole (program outcomes). They DO NOT mean the same thing. We will follow the lead of Hartel and Foegeding (2004) and use the following working definitions: Competency: A general statement that describes the desired knowledge, skills, and behaviors of a student graduating from a program (or completing a course).
